Frontend Developer

ABOUT ME

I am a programmer who is developing himself day by day in the field of Frontend Developer. I entered the software in high school by choosing the Department of Database Programming. I haven't done much work on the field I'm currently in, but I have knowledge of SQL database. We were doing desktop application development with C# form application in high school. I am currently studying Computer Technologies and Information Systems at Trakya University. Actually, I started to develop myself and decide on my field after I went to university. Currently, I am actively developing myself in the field of Frontend developer. I am excited to take care of using active technologies and develop projects related to these technologies.
